INTRODUCTION

No one is proposing that Idaho court clerks abandon their “ministerial review” of newly filed civil complaints. As this Court has correctly observed, though “much of the physical work done at a courthouse intake counter [is] eliminated” by e-filing technology, “clerical staff still need[] to (at some point) review ... submissions to ensure compliance with all appropriate rules and procedures.” Courthouse News Serv. v. Omundson, 598 F. Supp. 3d 929, 933 (D. Idaho 2022) (emphasis added). The question for the Court is whether Idaho courts must keep new complaints secret from the press and public until they have completed this review. And the answer is “no.”

Though Defendant entirely ignores the prior order in this case, this Court has already decided that the First Amendment right to access a new civil complaint attaches when the court receives it, instructing the parties that what “remains to be seen [is] whether there are ‘delays’ in this case and whether those delays are justified.” Id. at 941-42. Though the parties use different units of measurement, there is no meaningful dispute about the delays in this case. As to justification, Defendant bears the burden of “demonstrat[ing]” both (1) “a ‘substantial probability’” that overriding interests “would be impaired by immediate access,” and (2) that “no reasonable alternatives exist to ‘adequately protect’ that government interest.” Courthouse News Serv. v. Planet, 947 F.3d 581, 596 (9th Cir. 2020) (“Planet III”) (quoting Press-Enterprise Co. v. Superior Court, 478 U.S. 1, 14 (1986) (“Press-Enterprise II”). She has not demonstrated either, and her motion for summary judgment must be denied.

I. As This Court Has Already Concluded, the Right of Access Attaches When a Filer Submits a Complaint to the Court, Not After “Ministerial Review” and “Acceptance” by Court Staff

Notably absent from Defendant’s brief (“Def. MSJ”) (ECF 60-2) is any mention of the decision already issued in this case, in which this Court considered “whether the First Amendment confers a right to access documents filed in court, and, if so, at what point in time does that right attach.” Omundson, 598 F. Supp. 3d at 932. In Planet III, the Ninth Circuit equated “filed” with “received by the court,” id. at 588 (“The district court further held that the right to timely access attaches at the moment of filing, i.e., when the complaint is received by the court.”); id. at 591 (“CNS urges us to affirm the district court’s conclusion that the First Amendment creates a right of access that arises upon the court’s receipt of the complaint.”), and “conclude[d], as [had] the district court, that the qualified right of access to nonconfidential civil complaints arises when they are filed with the court...” 947 F.3d at 594.

Despite the Planet III holding, Defendant urged the Court to conclude that in Idaho the First Amendment access right attaches only after court staff have completed a “ministerial review” of a new complaint. Def.’s Mem. in Opp. to Mot. for P.I. at 2, 4, 6-9 (Dec. 22, 2021) (ECF 20). Defendant’s position was based on a local rule stating that an e-filed “document will be considered filed” when it has been “accepted” by court staff. Idaho Rules for Electronic Filing and Service (“IREFS”) 11(a). The Court rejected this argument, concluding instead that for purposes of the First Amendment analysis, “‘filed’ is best understood to mean when the complaint is submitted to the respective e-filing system, not to mean once the documents are reviewed/accepted/processed by a clerk.” Omundson, 598 F. Supp. 3d at 944.

In doing so, the Court reached the same conclusion as every other court that had considered the question. Courthouse News Serv. v. Cozine, 2022 WL 1000775, at *2 (D. Or. Apr. 4, 2022) (“[A]s Planet makes clear, the right of access to civil complaints attaches when they are submitted to the court.”); Courthouse News Serv. v. New Mexico Admin. Off. of the Cts., 566 F. Supp. 3d 1121, 1171 (D.N.M. 2021) (“N.M. P.I. Order”), reversed in part on other grounds, 53 F.4th 1245 (10th Cir. 2022) (“The qualified right ‘attaches when the complaint is filed’ in a traditional sense – when it is in the court’s possession.”); Courthouse News Serv. v. Gabel, 2021 WL 5416650, at *13 (D. Vt. Nov. 19, 2021) (“A qualified First Amendment right of access attaches when a complaint is electronically filed.”). The Tenth Circuit has since agreed, offering the most comprehensive analysis to date. Courthouse News Serv. v. New Mexico Admin. Off. of Cts., 53 F.4th 1245, 1261–62 (10th Cir. 2022) (“New Mexico”).

A. Defendant Can’t Justify the Delays Her Current Post-Acceptance Policy Causes by Applying the Label “Acceptance” to a Clerk’s Historic Receipt of a Paper Filing

Because the complaints in the Planet case were in paper form, filers submitted¹ them to the court by handing them to a clerk. According to Defendant, the clerk thus “accepted” the complaint at the intake counter, before subjecting it to further administrative processing (i.e., docketing). Thus, Defendant posits, reporters who used to see paper complaints on the day they were submitted were seeing them “post-acceptance,” making that historic access the equivalent of the post-acceptance access Idaho’s district courts currently provide. Def. MSJ at 7-8, 12-13.²

The Tenth Circuit rejected precisely this argument as “disingenuously focus[ing] on the technical terms applied to various intake and docketing tasks, rather than the delay that such tasks may cause – even though these delays lie at the heart of Courthouse News’ constitutional

¹ The term traditionally used to refer to the act of submitting a document to the court is “file.” See, e.g., N.M. P.I. Order, 566 F. Supp. 3d at 1171. However, terminology should not obscure the relevant facts and legal principles in this case. What matters is that possession of the complaint passes from the filer to the court, whether that is labeled “filing,” “submission,” or some other term. Courthouse News will therefore use the phrases “submitted to” or “received by” a court instead of “filed” where doing so avoids unnecessary confusion.

² Defendant misrepresents the testimony of Courthouse News reporter Cathy Valenti to imply that Ms. Valenti agrees that a complaint is not “filed,” and not appropriately reported on, until court staff has “accepted” it. Def. MSJ at 13; Defendant’s Statement of Undisputed Facts, ¶¶ 24-25 (ECF 60-1) (“DSUF”). When read in context, Ms. Valenti clearly uses the word “filed” to distinguish between complaints that had been handed to court staff (filed) from those in the hands of people standing in line waiting to file (not yet filed). Declaration of Keely Duke in Supp. of Def. MSJ (“Duke Decl.”), Exh. E (ECF 60-8) (Valenti Depo. 53:21-54:11, 55:6-14, 58:11-59:3, 98:23-99:6); see Courthouse News Resp. to DSUF (“DSUF Resp.”), ¶¶ 24-25.

challenge.” New Mexico, 53 F.4th at 1266.

Although ... the press previously had access to complaints only after the clerks completed their initial review, the similarities between traditional access and current access end there. The New Mexico Courts’ current electronic-filing system results in delays that differ meaningfully from the timely access that the press enjoyed under New Mexico’s paper-filing system.

Id. at 1267; see also Courthouse News Serv. v. Cozine, 2022 WL 593603, at *7–8 (D. Or. Feb.

14, 2022), (rejecting argument that prior access to paper-filed complaints was equivalent to current access to e-filed complaints because both happen after “acceptance” of the complaint) report and recommendation adopted, 2022 WL 1000775 (D. Or. Apr. 4, 2022).

B. Planet III’s References to “Judicial Records” Do Not Support Defendant’s Theory

In her renewed effort to avoid Planet III, Defendant parses the specific components of the administrative process in that case and imagines that the Ninth Circuit considered the first step to constitute “accepting” the complaint, which “presumably” caused it to consider the complaints at issue to be “judicial documents,” and which made the “days, and sometimes weeks, long process” suitable for First Amendment scrutiny. Def. MSJ at 7-8.

As an initial matter, though the “ministerial review” conducted by Idaho clerks takes less than five minutes, Affidavit of Margaret Molchan (Dec. 22, 2021) (ECF 20-14) (“Molchan PI Aff.”), ¶ 10(a), it can take days, and sometimes weeks, for the review to be conducted and for the complaint to finally be accessible. See Declaration of Adam Angione in Supp. of MSJ Opp. (“Angione Opp. Decl.”), ¶¶ 3-4 & Exh. 13 (Defendant’s access data filtered and sorted to show complaints withheld for 5 days or longer).

Next, Defendant’s theory that the Planet III analysis depended on a particular definition of “judicial document” that comports with Defendant’s arguments, Def. MSJ at 4, 8-15, does not hold water. Defendant is mistaken in thinking the Ninth Circuit used the term “judicial document” or “judicial record” to refer only to documents subject to the First Amendment.

Defendant incorrectly asserts that under Planet III, “courts consider” Press-Enterprise II’s test “to determine whether a document qualifies as a ‘judicial document.’” In the cited passage, the Ninth Circuit used “judicial record” in a more generic sense to describe the document to which the Press-Enterprise II test is applied: “This ‘experience and logic’ test evaluates the institutional value of public access to judicial proceedings and records to determine whether the First Amendment provides a presumption of access.” Planet III, 947 F.3d at 590 (emphasis added).

Defendant’s citation to two Second Circuit cases only confuses things further. Def. MSJ at 9. In both United States v. Amodeo, 44 F.3d 141, 145 (2d Cir. 1995) and Lugosch v. Pyramid Co. of Onondaga, 435 F.3d 110, 115 (2d Cir. 2006), the Second Circuit said that not all documents filed with the court should be considered “judicial documents” subject to the common law right of access. But nothing in either case (both of which found the records at issue to be subject to access) suggests the Second Circuit would have considered a newly filed (or “submitted”) complaint to be not “relevant to the performance of the judicial function” simply because the court might return it for correction after a ministerial review.

To the contrary, in Lugosch the Second Circuit rejected an analogous argument, that documents submitted with a summary judgment motion should be considered “judicial documents” only after (and if) the court granted the motion (rendering it dispositive):

When [the party] filed its motion for summary judgment, it did so in the hope that it would be a dispositive motion, and with the belief that it was entitled to such relief. ... Thus, if, as [the party] concedes, there would have been a right of public access had the motion been granted, we fail to see why such a right did not attach merely because the motion was denied.

435 F.3d at 122 (citation omitted). Those who e-file complaints presumably do so in the hope that the complaint will not require correction of any clerical issues. Indeed, the overwhelming majority are not returned for correction. See, e.g., Declaration of Emily Carroll in Supp. of Def.

MSJ, ¶ 10 (ECF 60-18) (“Carroll Decl.”) (91% of initial filings in Ada County from Jan. 2021 to Nov. 2022 accepted without being returned for correction).

Defendant tries to bolster her arguments with a misleading citation of Planet III, 947 F.3d at 593, for the proposition that “[p]rior to acceptance, judicial proceedings have not been initiated and there is not yet an official court record.” Def. MSJ at 13-14. According to Defendant, the Ninth Circuit found “cases cited by defendant [to be] inapplicable because they ... ‘address documents that are not in fact part of the record of judicial proceedings.’” Id. Defendant implies that the Ninth Circuit meant that the documents in the cited cases were not “part of the record of judicial proceedings” because court staff had not “accepted” them. To the contrary, in the relevant passage, the Ninth Circuit discounts cases cited by the Planet defendant “that merely conclude that various civil litigation documents fall outside of the First Amendment right of access altogether.” Planet III, 947 F.3d at 593. The court contrasts such documents (e.g., documents submitted by criminal defendants to show eligibility for Criminal Justice Act funds) against civil complaints: “These cases address documents that are not in fact part of the record of judicial proceedings, unlike the complaint, ‘which initiates judicial proceedings, is the cornerstone of every case, the very architecture of the lawsuit,’ and access to which ‘is almost always necessary if the public is to understand a court’s decision.’” Id. (citations omitted).

Nothing in Planet III supports the idea that the possibility of a small percentage of new complaints being returned to the filer for correction could change the analysis, somehow removing the complaints from the reach of the First Amendment. To the contrary, the two judges in the Planet III majority (Judges Wardlaw and Murguia) had already heard this precise argument from the Planet clerk in the second appeal in that case (from a 12(b)(6) dismissal). Citing California rules comparable to Idaho’s, the Planet clerk presented as the sole issue on appeal “[w]hether the First Amendment creates a right to access civil complaints on the same day they are received by VSC clerks, even before these complaints are processed, filed, and entered into the court’s official records.” Appellee’s Answering Brief at 2, Courthouse News Serv. v. Planet, 2014 WL 7278648, *1, 9th Cir. Case No. 14-56444 (Dkt. No. 20) (Dec. 19, 2014) (emphasis added). He argued that “scanned complaints ‘do not constitute official records of the Court’ and may ultimately be rejected for failure to comply with the California Rules of Court,” and that “[c]omplaints become official court records ‘only after they are assigned a case number, stamped “filed” and placed in a file folder.’” Id. at *8 (emphasis added).

Had the Ninth Circuit found these arguments persuasive it would not have reversed and remanded to the district court. Courthouse News Serv. v. Planet, 614 F. App’x 912, 915 (9th Cir. 2015) (“Planet II”); see Cozine, 2022 WL 593603, at *6 (“While the Ninth Circuit’s actions in Planet II did not unequivocally reject the Ventura Court executive’s position – a position defendant now adopts – it did choose to remand the case instead of finding, for example, that the First Amendment right of access to newly filed civil complaints does not attach until court staff process the document. Thus, the Ninth Circuit’s actions in Planet II raise significant concern on the overall persuasiveness of the defendant’s position.”).

Finally, Defendant dooms her own argument by acknowledging that the Ninth Circuit “described filing a complaint as being synonymous with invoking the court’s jurisdiction.” Def. MSJ at 9 (emphasis added) (citing Planet III, 947 F.3d at 593). The word “invoke” means “to petition for help” or “to appeal to.” See, e.g., Declaration of Katherine Keating in Supp. of MSJ Opp. (“Keating Decl.”), Exh. 1. That is precisely what a litigant does when he or she submits a complaint to the court. And “[t]his critical moment in time – regardless of whether a filer hands a paper complaint to an intake clerk, or whether a filer hits the ‘submit’ button on the electronic-filing software – is when the First Amendment right of access attaches.” New Mexico, 53 F.4th at 1267.³

II. Defendant Does Not Genuinely Dispute that Her Policy Delays Access to Civil Complaints

While the parties disagree about how delays should be presented (i.e., days that passed before complaints could be accessed vs. “business hours” that passed between submission and “acceptance”), there is no genuine dispute that the delays exist. Before discussing delays, however, a brief detour into the relevant universe of complaints is necessary.

Complaints at Issue. As Courthouse News stated in its complaint, its reporters do not “cover family law matters, name changes, probate filings, most mortgage foreclosures, or collection actions against individuals unless the individual is well-known or otherwise notable.” Complaint, ¶ 19 (ECF 1); see also, e.g., Duke Decl., Exh. E (Valenti Depo. 50:2-9) (“We don’t do magistrate or small claims.”). During discovery, the parties worked together to identify these complaints using Idaho’s rules and procedures, concluding that the complaints sought by Courthouse News are those within the “A.A Category” set forth in Appendix A to the Idaho Rules of Civil Procedure (“Complaints at Issue”). See Declaration of Jonathan Fetterly in Supp. of Courthouse News’ Motion for Summary Judgment (“Fetterly Decl.”), Exh. 4 (ECF 67-1) (Appendix A to IRCP); see also id., Exh. 2 at 9 (Interrogatory No. 18). As Defendant notes, these are “essentially complaints filed in District Court where the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000.” Def. MSJ at 28. Defendant now implies that Courthouse News unilaterally “narrow[ed] the at-issue complaints” to the A.A. Category to gain a tactical advantage. DSUF ¶¶ 4-5. That is not accurate. See Keating Decl., ¶ 3 & Exh. 2; DSUF Resp. ¶¶ 4-5.

Delays. Defendant provided detailed data about the Complaints at Issue submitted throughout Idaho from January 1, 2021 through July 31, 2022, including when each was submitted to the court, when each was reviewed, and if and when each was ultimately made available to the public. See Declaration of Adam Angione in Supp. of MSJ (“Angione MSJ Decl.”) (ECF 61-4), ¶¶ 4-13 & Exh. 1 (filed as Excel spreadsheet); Carroll Decl., ¶ 6 & Exh. A (filed as Excel spreadsheet). Both parties used this data to analyze delays in access to the Complaints at Issue during this period. Id. The primary difference between the parties’ analysis is that Defendant treats complaints submitted after 5:00 p.m. as having been submitted the following court day (what she calls “the effective submitted weekday and time”), and presents the results in terms of the number of complaints reviewed within a certain number of “business hours” from the “effective submitted weekday and time.” Carroll Decl., ¶ 6. Defendant says that more than half of the Complaints at Issue were reviewed within two business hours of submission, 65% were reviewed within three business hours, and about 85% were reviewed within one business day (i.e., within eight business hours). Def. MSJ at 21.

Defendant does not say, however, what percentage of the Complaints at Issue were available to the press or public on the day they were e-filed. From January 2021 through July 2022, Idaho’s district courts withheld nearly half (42%) of all Complaints at Issue until at least the following day. Angione MSJ Decl., ¶¶ 15-18 & Exh. 2 (ECF 61-4); DSUF Resp., ¶ 72. Approximately 15% were unavailable for two calendar days or longer. Id. Individual delays during the period were regularly worse, varying in degree from court to court, and from month to month, and week to week. Declaration of Jimmy Shimabukuro in Supp. of MSJ (ECF 61-3) (“Shimabukuro Decl.”), ¶¶ 3-15 & Exhs. 1-9; DSUF Resp. ¶ 72. For example, the district court for Kootenai County withheld every single Complaint at Issue filed in April 2021 until at least the following day, with 98% of them withheld for two calendar days or longer. Shimabukuro Decl., Exh. 4; DSUF Resp. ¶ 72.

Defendant's assertion that the relief Courthouse News seeks would merely make Complaints available "a few hours sooner," Def. MSJ at 21, is disingenuous. Although filers can e-file complaints 24 hours a day, Idaho district court staff does not process complaints after courts close at 5:00 p.m. Complaints filed after 3:00 p.m. and reviewed two hours later will not be available until the next day the court is open. Moreover, Defendant's "business hour" measurements reflect that substantial numbers of Complaints had still not been processed after three business days (24 business hours). Carroll Decl., ¶ 6(j). These delays cannot be brushed aside as "de minimis." Def. MSJ at 21.

Defendant also offers confusing information about complaints that are not at issue in this case. She says, for example, that "it took an average of 4.82 business hours statewide between submission of an initial civil filing and clerk review," Def. MSJ at 20-21, without mentioning that this statistic is based on all initial filings statewide rather than the Complaints at Issue. DSUF ¶ 70. The purpose of doing so is evidently to assert that "absent clerk review on the front end, court action would have been required to address over 44,000 improperly submitted complaints statewide (with close to 10,000 of those submitted in Ada County) in a less than two-year time span." Def. MSJ at 21. This statement is misleading.

First, as Defendant knows, the reality is that only 1,642 of the Complaints at Issue were returned for correction across all Idaho district courts during this span of more than one and a half years. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 2 at 11-12 (Interrogatory No. 21) (ECF 67-1). Most of these (1,025) were subsequently corrected, resubmitted, ultimately accepted, and considered filed as of the date of the initial submission. Id., Exh. 2 at 12-13 (Interrogatory No. 22).

Second, the statement refers to Defendant’s contention that if Idaho were to configure its e-filing and case management systems to automatically accept e-filed Complaints at Issue into the case management system rather than require manual acceptance, clerical issues that currently result in the Complaints at Issue being returned to filers for correction would require judicial intervention. See DSUF ¶¶ 59, 61-63. Defendant has not demonstrated that this implausible assertion is true. See infra at 24-27; see also Courthouse News’ Mem. in Supp. of MSJ (“CNS MSJ”) (ECF 61-1) at 20-23.

Third, Defendant does not need to automatically accept the Complaints at Issue in order to fix the delays. Defendant could make the Complaints at Issue available to the press (or even the public at large) before court staff have conducted their ministerial review and accepted them. See CNS MSJ at 23-26; Plaintiff’s Statement of Undisputed Facts (“PSUF”) (ECF 61-2), ¶¶ 66-68, 71-77. What she may not do is refuse to take any action at all by dismissing the delays as “insignificant.” Def. MSJ at 20.

III. The Second Part of the Test: Justifications and Alternatives

As the Court has recognized, the second part of the Press-Enterprise II test “is very fact driven.” Omundson, 598 F. Supp. 3d at 938. Defendant “must demonstrate first that there is a ‘substantial probability’” that an overriding interest “would be impaired by immediate access, and second, that no reasonable alternatives exist to ‘adequately protect’ that government interest.” Planet III, 947 F.3d at 596 (quoting Press-Enterprise II, 478 U.S. at 14).

Instead of “demonstrating” through facts a substantial probability that delaying access to the Complaints at Issue protects an overriding interest or that, if she had shown such a probability, that Idaho lacks reasonable alternatives that would protect the interest without delaying access, offers generalized and unsubstantiated comments about what she thinks would happen if Idaho did not delay access. And even these do not withstand logic (which might explain the lack of concrete facts to support them).

A. The Court Must Follow the Test Adopted in the Planet III Majority Opinion – Not the Time, Place, and Manner Test the Majority Rejected

In its prior order, the Court asked the parties for “more briefing ... on the level of scrutiny to apply as part of its second-prong inquiry and whether Idaho's procedures constitute time, place, and manner restrictions.” Omundson, 598 F. Supp. 3d at 939. The relevant analysis appears in Section III.A of Planet III, 947 F.3d at 594-96. The Ninth Circuit first expressed the relevant standard in general terms: “Once we have determined that a qualified First Amendment right of access ... exists, a presumption of access arises under Press-Enterprise II that may be restricted only if ‘closure is essential to preserve higher values and is narrowly tailored to serve those interests.’” Id. at 595.

The court noted that the policies at issue “resemble time, place, and manner restrictions” because “they are content-neutral and affect only the timing of access to the newly filed complaints,” but it expressly declined to apply the “time, place and manner test,” the “standard applicable to speech in public forums.” Id. at 595-96 and n.9. The court cited Leigh v. Salazar, in which the Ninth Circuit described Press-Enterprise II as “balanc[ing] the vital public interest in preserving the media’s ability to monitor government activities against the ... need to impose restrictions if necessary for safety or other legitimate reasons.” 677 F.3d 892, 900 (9th Cir. 2012). In Leigh, the court reversed a denial of injunction because, inter alia, the district court failed to consider “whether the [defendant had] demonstrated an overriding interest in the ... restrictions, or whether the restrictions are narrowly tailored to serve that interest,” and remanded “for the district court to conduct the analysis that Press-Enterprise II requires.” Id. at 900-01.

This is the standard the Ninth Circuit applied in Planet III, which it described as not strict but “rigorous” scrutiny. Planet III, 947 F.3d at 595-96. The court concluded by spelling out in greater detail what is required “[t]o survive Press-Enterprise II’s two-prong balancing test” in the context of Courthouse News’ challenge:

Ventura County must demonstrate first that there is a ‘substantial probability’ that its interest in the fair and orderly administration of justice would be impaired by immediate access, and second, that no reasonable alternatives exist to ‘adequately protect’ that government interest.

Id. at 596 (quoting Press-Enterprise II, 478 U.S. at 14).

Defendant argues that the Ninth Circuit was wrong to adopt this approach, that what the court called rigorous scrutiny looks like strict scrutiny, and that the court should instead have applied the time, place, and manner test, as urged by Judge Smith in the concurrence. Def. MSJ at 17. However, “the Court is bound by the holdings of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.” United States v. Edwards, 2011 WL 2577217, at *2 n.11 (D. Idaho June 7, 2011). “Binding authority ... cannot be considered and cast aside; it is not merely evidence of what the law is. Rather, caselaw on point is the law.” Hart v. Massanari, 266 F.3d 1155, 1170 (9th Cir. 2001) (emphasis in original).

It bears noting that Planet’s “no-access-before-process” policy did not survive even the time, place, and manner test the concurrence applied. Planet III, 947 F.3d at 604. Judge Smith concluded that Planet failed to “explain how ‘processing’ the complaints before making them available to the press furthered his stated reasons for the policy.” Id. As to an integrity-of-court-records justification, there was no testimony “that providing reporters access to complaints before processing resulted in loss, destruction, or mutilation of, or otherwise compromised the ‘integrity’ of case files.” Id. at 605. As to “privacy interest[s],” the court’s rule “requires the filer – not the court – to exclude or redact private information from publicly filed judicial documents.” Id. at 604. As discussed below, Defendant has similarly failed to demonstrate that withholding the Complaints at Issue is necessary to protect the interests she claims.

B. Demonstrating a Substantial Probability of Impairment Requires More Than Vague Supposition and Far-Fetched Hypotheticals

Defendant uses a number of lofty-sounding phrases to justify the practice of withholding access until after clerk review: e.g., “promoting access to the courts” (Def. MSJ at 4, 18, 22, 29), “ensuring public confidence in the judicial system” (id. at 3, 5, 18, 22, 23), and “maintaining the integrity of the court system.” Id. at 5. After the smoke clears, however, a closer look reveals that Defendant actually offers two justifications: (1) preventing the confusion that would supposedly result if someone saw a complaint that was later returned for correction and was ultimately not corrected and accepted; and (2) preventing the release of confidential information that a clerk would have identified and suppressed through the five-minute ministerial review.⁴

For each justification, Defendant must “demonstrate ... a ‘substantial probability’ that its interest ... would be impaired by immediate access.” Planet III, 947 F.3d at 596 (emphasis added). Imagining scenarios in which the interest might theoretically be implicated is not enough. Despite filing more than sixteen declarations from various court personnel, Defendant has failed to substantiate either justification. Under the Press-Enterprise II framework, “a court cannot rubber-stamp an access restriction simply because the government says it is necessary,” Leigh v. Salazar, 677 F.3d 892, 900 (9th Cir. 2012).

1. The Possibility that Clerks Might Return an E-Filed Complaint for Correction (aka “Reject” It) Is Not a Reason to Keep it Secret

Defendant asserts that “there is great concern that providing access before acceptance of a complaint into Case Manager could erode public confidence in the court system.” Def. MSJ at

14 (citing DSUF, ¶¶ 51-53).⁵ This contention is pure supposition, devoid of any factual support.

In her declaration, Defendant states that “[t]he Press Review Queue could ... erode public confidence in the courts if members of the press and public are reporting on complaints as if they are official court documents. ... If a complaint is reported on but ultimately rejected without a successful resubmission, the press and public will be left to speculate about the reasons for this phenomenon.” Declaration of Sara Omundson (ECF 59 (notice of filing of sealed document)) (“Omundson Decl.”), ¶ 19. Similarly, Judge Meyer states that she is “concerned about the implicit representation that a document in the Press Review Queue has been filed or is otherwise an official court document.” Declaration of Hon. Cynthia Meyer (ECF 60-28) (“Meyer Decl.”), ¶ 12. She believes that members of the press or public “may not understand” that complaints in a press review queue “have not been reviewed or accepted by clerks and will not become part of the record if they are rejected and not corrected.” Id.

These conclusory assertions fall far short of what Press-Enterprise II requires. What Defendant needed to prove is not that court personnel have this belief but that the belief itself is grounded in fact – i.e., that “there is a ‘substantial probability’ that” Defendant’s interest in maintaining public confidence in the judiciary “would be impaired by immediate access.” Planet III, 947 F.3d at 596 (quoting Press-Enterprise II, 478 U.S. at 14).

Defendant offers only two facts in support of her “public confidence” justification, and neither supports it. First, she points to the lack of functionality in Tyler’s current press review tool to “watermark documents as ‘under review’ or ‘not filed.’” Def. MSJ at 24; DSUF ¶ 51. At most, this goes to the possibility that someone looking at a complaint in a press review queue would not know whether or not it has been “accepted” by the court, not that this could lead to erosion of public trust in the judiciary. Even as to the more limited point, Defendant does not say that a Tyler-provided press review queue is incapable of including any kind of notice language on the review queue interface itself, as several non-Tyler press review sites do. See, e.g., Girdner Decl., ¶ 52 & Exh. 18 at 2, ¶¶ 65, 76; Fetterly Decl., ¶ 21 (ECF 67-1) & Exh. 19 (ECF 66-2). And if watermarking the complaint itself as “under review” is important to Defendant, she could build that feature into any review queue she might choose to provide (or could request that Tyler or another vendor do so). See, e.g., Girdner Decl., ¶¶ 47-48. As a practical matter, however, Defendant has already answered the question of how the press and public can distinguish between e-filed complaints awaiting clerk review and those that have been “accepted”: complaints that have not been “accepted” have no file-stamp. Def. MSJ at 24.

Second, Defendant notes that Courthouse News does not issue a “correction” if a complaint listed in a litigation report is later returned for correction. DSUF ¶ 52. In such a circumstance, there is nothing to correct. Courthouse News’ reports reflect complaints that plaintiffs have submitted to the court for the purpose of initiating a lawsuit. If a court later strikes or returns the complaint for correction, that does not render the original report “erroneous.” Id. It remains true that the plaintiff submitted the complaint, as reported. Moreover, if Defendant is correct that the public would be curious as to why a complaint was submitted, returned for correction, and not subsequently corrected, that weighs in favor of giving the public more information about what happened with a particular complaint – not erasing any trace of the complaint and pretending like it never existed.

More fundamentally, the argument that ““providing access to complaints that may be rejected or withdrawn only invites confusion as to what is happening in a state’s courts’ ... ‘ignores the immediate consequences precipitated by filing a complaint,’ which originate not from a clerk's administrative acceptance of a complaint, but rather from the filer's submission of the complaint to the court." New Mexico, 53 F.4th at 1268 (quoting Courthouse News. v. Schaefer, 2 F.4th 318, 327 (4th Cir. 2021)) (emphasis added).

As Judge Hippler has said in this case, there may be some plaintiffs who file a complaint without any interest in litigating the dispute and instead solely to pressure the defendant into a settlement, perhaps with the intention of withdrawing the complaint once the defendant has either capitulated or called plaintiff's bluff. Affidavit of Hon. Stephen Hippler (Dec. 22, 2021) (ECF 20-16) ("Hippler PI Aff."), ¶ 8. That possibility weighs in favor of not withholding access until acceptance. Planet III, 947 F.3d at 592-93 ("When a complaint is filed, and the authority of the people of the United States is thereby invoked, even if only as a threat to induce settlement, the American people have a right to know that the plaintiff has invoked their power to achieve his personal ends.") (citation omitted); accord New Mexico, 53 F.4th at 1269 ("[E]ven if a civil complaint is withdrawn because it might have 'prompt[ed] the parties to settle,' '[t]he public still has a right to know that the filing of the complaint in our courts influenced the settlement of the dispute.'") (quoting Planet III, 947 F.3d at 592-93).

This is true whether the court labels the filer's tendering of the complaint as "filing," "submission," or some other administrative term. As the Tenth Circuit pointed out, the argument about potential confusion from the public learning about a complaint that is never "accepted" by court staff "overlooks the fact that the withdrawal or rejection of a complaint might itself be a matter of public interest that the press deem newsworthy." New Mexico, 53 F.4th at 1269.

2. Whatever Interest Defendant Has in Keeping Certain Complaints Confidential Does Not Justify Withholding All Complaints at Issue Pending Court Staff's Review

Defendant has woven alarming language about confidential information throughout her moving papers. She claims that allowing access prior to review poses "serious risks," is “dangerous,” and “would open the floodgates for improper and inappropriate filings.” Def. MSJ at 5, 14, 25. She offers not a shred of evidence in support of these assertions.

a. Idaho Rules on Confidentiality in Court Records

A serious analysis of the confidentiality issues implicated (and, more importantly, not implicated) in this case requires a more careful review of the record and relevant rules and law. Idaho district courts can withhold access to complaints based on confidential information in only narrowly defined circumstances:

Documents Exempt from Disclosure. Certain categories of documents are presumptively exempt from disclosure by rule or statute. See ICAR 32(g). No such documents are at issue in this case. Defendant has acknowledged that “[t]here are no documents” within the category encompassing the Complaints at Issue “that must be kept confidential by the Idaho District Courts by operation of rule or law without the need for a motion or request for sealing.” Fetterly Decl., Exh. 2 at 9, 10; PSUF ¶ 46.

Documents Filed with a Motion to Seal. Documents may be sealed, but only by order of the court upon a motion pursuant to ICAR 32(i). Such motions, and the documents to be filed under seal, must be filed conventionally (i.e., in paper). They may not be e-filed. IREFS 5(h); PSUF ¶ 47. Defendant has confirmed that only once over the course of more than two and one-half years has a Complaint at Issue been e-filed with a motion to seal, in violation of IREFS 5(h). Fetterly MSJ Decl., Exh. 2 at 10-11; PSUF ¶ 48.

Protected Personal Data Identifiers. Social security numbers, financial account numbers, and other “personal data identifiers” should be redacted from filings, but Idaho expressly places the burden for ensuring such redaction on the filers. IREFS 15(a), (b); IRCP 2.6(a), (b). “It is the responsibility of the filer to ensure that protected personal data identifiers are omitted or redacted from documents before the documents are filed. The clerk of the court will not review filings to determine whether appropriate omissions or redactions have been made.” IRCP 2.6(a) (emphasis added); IREFS 15(a) (same). The rules warn parties to therefore “exercise caution when filing papers that contain private or confidential information,” and provides for sanctions against filers who knowingly violate the rules. IRCP 2.6(f), (g); IREFS 15(f), (g). Counsel are “strongly urged to share ... with all clients” the fact that filers are solely responsible for excluding protected personal data identifiers, “so that an informed decision about the inclusion of certain materials may be made.” IREFS 15(a).

b. Defendant Has Not Shown that Access Prior to Clerk Review Would Compromise Confidentiality

Considered against this framework of rules, it is not surprising that Defendant’s “ministerial review” of new civil complaints does not include a review for confidential information. See, e.g., Molchan PI Aff., ¶ 6; Declaration of Sharee Sprague (ECF 60-33) (“Sprague Decl.”), ¶ 3; Declaration of Sandra Barrios (ECF 60-35) (“Barrios Decl.”), ¶ 3. Though Defendant’s declarants note the possibility that “an individual could inadvertently or maliciously submit a complaint with confidential information, such as social security numbers, birthdates, bank account information, etc.,” Declaration of Roland Gammill (ECF 60-34) (“Gammill Decl.”), ¶ 12 (emphasis added); see also, e.g., Barrios Decl., ¶ 11 (identical); Declaration of Kerry Hong (ECF 60-37) (“Hong Decl.”), ¶ 12 (identical); Declaration of Jamie Robb (ECF 60-38) (“Robb Decl.”), ¶ 12 (identical); Declaration of Shelli Tubbs (ECF 60-39) (“Tubbs Decl.”), ¶ 12 (identical), not one of them identified an instance in which this happened, let alone an instance in which clerk review prevented this information from being included in a public filing.

Defendant asserts that “[t]here are ... serious risks related to disclosure of confidential or personally identifiable information; clerks serve as gatekeepers in an attempt to help make sure confidential information does not make its way into the official court record.” Def. MSJ at 14 (citing DSUF ¶ 55). The cited evidence, however, does not support this proposition.⁶ The term “gatekeeper” does appear in numerous declarations, but not to establish that clerks review complaints for confidential information. Rather, multiple declarants repeat the statement that “clerks have served as gatekeepers for improperly submitted documents,” see e.g., Meyer Decl., ¶ 8, (i.e., documents missing signatures, party names entered incorrectly), Molchan PI Aff., ¶ 6; Duke Decl., Exh. M at SO 001587.

Entirely unmoored from any factual basis is the notion that making the Complaints at Issue available prior to “ministerial review” would “turn the court filing system into a public media platform.” Def. MSJ at 5; see also id. at 25 (“This would effectively turn the court filing system into a social media platform for all users to access in order to relay public and potentially inappropriate or defamatory information.”). Not surprisingly, Defendant offers no factual support for this contention. Bad actors have free social media platforms perfectly designed to anonymously disseminate information to the world at large. The idea that individuals would instead flock to Idaho’s civil e-filing system to distribute malicious content if they knew clerks were no longer conducting a clerical review is nonsensical. Indeed, Defendant’s examples of public-official doxing were conducted not through court filings but via social media and old-fashioned paper fliers distributed in neighborhoods. Barrios Decl., ¶ 12 n.1.⁷

⁶ The evidence cited in DSUF ¶ 55 consists of, first, Judge Meyer repeating the statement that “an individual could inadvertently or maliciously submit a complaint that includes confidential information” and asserting (without explanation or factual foundation) that “filing errors could result in cases that were supposed to be filed under seal being available in the Press Review Queue,” Meyer Decl., ¶ 13. And, second, speculation from a witness who had never seen, let alone tested, a press review queue as to how it might not prevent the disclosure of confidential information. Duke Decl., Exh. J (Dvorak Depo. 22:9-25:9, 83:1-85:14, 87:5-20).

Similarly unsupported are the following bald assertions, which include no citation whatsoever:

[C]lerk review minimizes the risk of injury to individuals, protects privacy rights, minimizes reluctance to use the court system, and increases public confidence and trust in Idaho Courts. Clerks can reject documents if they are being submitted for an improper purpose or inadvertently include confidential information. This ensures that confidential, sensitive, or personally identifiable information is not being published by the Idaho Courts, which would erode public trust and confidence in the courts and be detrimental to privacy interests.

Def. MSJ at 20. It is not at all clear what it would mean for someone to submit a civil complaint “for an improper purpose,” let alone how a clerk would determine that the filer’s “purpose” was “improper” or that information in a complaint is both “confidential” and included “inadvertently.” Setting aside the serious constitutional issues created by a clerk making subjective determinations as to the propriety of a civil filing based on its contents, one could not realistically expect a clerk to manage all this within a “ministerial review” that takes less than five minutes. Molchan PI Aff., ¶¶ 10(a).⁸

These considerations likely factored into Idaho’s policy decision not to have clerks

⁸ Also falling wide of the mark is an anecdote relayed by Judge Watkins about an attorney who filed a document in a criminal case containing “inflammatory information” and then “demand[ed]” it “be published on the Idaho Supreme Court’s cases of interest website.” Declaration of Hon. Dane Watkins (ECF 60-30) (“Watkins Decl.”), ¶ 14. Judge Watkins does not say whether it was ultimately filed in the public record. While a judge could conceivably find that the “inflammatory” material in that case warranted sealing, Defendant cites no authority that would allow a front-line clerk to make such a finding. See, e.g., State v. Clapp, 479 P.3d 460, 467 (Idaho Ct. App. 2020) (defendant failed to show that “the public’s First Amendment right to know what goes on in its courts should yield to his privacy interest”). Nor is a court’s choice to feature a particular document on its cases of interest website equivalent to a court’s duty to make non-confidential records available to the public.

review complaints for confidential information, as reflected in IRCP 2.6(a) and IREFS 15(a). Having explicitly warned filers that clerks will not review filings for protected personal data identifiers, Idaho cannot rely on the supposed need to review new civil complaints for such information to justify withholding access. See Planet III, 947 F.3d at 597 (9th Cir. 2020) (“no-access-before-process policy bears no real relationship to ... concerns about privacy and confidentiality” where a court rule “requires the filer – not the court – to exclude or redact private information from publicly filed judicial documents”) (citing Cal. R. Ct. 1.201(b)).

Moreover, even if, despite the plain language of Idaho’s rules, some clerks have taken it upon themselves to reject new filings when they notice unredacted personal data identifiers, the evidence does not reflect this occurring with any frequency. Four months of statewide rejection data shows not a single complaint rejected for failure to redact such information. Angione MSJ Decl., ¶¶ 19-20 & Exhs. 4-7. Thus, “Defendant[’s] own evidence reveals that placing the onus on filers has been overwhelmingly effective.” Gabel, 2021 WL 5416650, at *16.

3. The Sky Has Not Fallen In Any of the Courts That Make New Complaints Available Prior to Review

As Defendant knows, courts have been providing pre-processing access to e-filed complaints for years, see Girdner MSJ Decl. (ECF 64), ¶¶ 30-32 & Exh. 8 at 1-3, Exh. 9, and Exh. 10 at 1-3, providing ample opportunity for evidence of issues based on eroding public trust or confidentiality to come to light. Yet, Defendant offers no such evidence.

In discovery, Courthouse News specifically asked Defendant whether anyone, including personnel from other courts or from e-filing vendor Tyler, had relayed “any problems, negative experiences, or bad outcomes purportedly arising from the implementation of a Press Review Queue, Auto-Accept, or other method of providing the press or public with pre-Acceptance access to new civil complaints,” and, if so, asked her to describe them in detail. Fetterly MSJ

Decl., Exh. 9 at 6-7 (Interrogatory No. 26). Defendant was unable to point to any problems, negative experiences, or bad outcomes said to have arisen from providing such access. Id.

Instead, Defendant pointed to conversations with other administrators about “generalized concerns about publishing submitted but unfiled documents, including how this may undermine public confidence in the courts and the protection of confidential information and documents.”

Id. It appears that these conversations were primarily with administrators who do not currently provide such access and would prefer not to begin doing so. Id. (Nancy Cozine in Oregon and Artie Pepin in New Mexico); see also Duke Decl., Exh. C (Omundson Depo. 131:3-139:3).

Courthouse News is similarly unaware of any problems arising from the implementation of pre-acceptance access. Girdner Decl., ¶¶ 53, 61, 63, 66, 71, 76, 85. The public record reflects that no court has sought relief from any injunction granted in a Courthouse News access case.

To the contrary, court after court has argued that providing pre-processing access would be disastrous, only to ultimately provide such access without incident. See, e.g., id., ¶¶ 50-51, 74-75 & Exh. 17.

C. Defendant’s Alternatives Arguments Show a Lack of Will, Not a Lack of Options

There is no dispute that Idaho could remedy the delays at issue by automatically accepting the Complaints at Issue rather than holding them for clerk review. Nor does Defendant dispute that she could provide access prior to acceptance through a press review queue or other pre-acceptance access portal. She has demonstrated through numerous declarations that judicial personnel believe that these alternatives would create problems. But she has not demonstrated that those beliefs are grounded in fact. Thus, even if she had demonstrated a substantial probability that an overriding interest would be impaired by allowing access to complaints prior to a ministerial review, she has not demonstrated that “no reasonable alternatives exist to ‘adequately protect’ that ... interest.” Planet III, 947 F.3d at 596.

Tyler has confirmed that more than 20 of its court customers have configured their systems to automatically accept new filings, and that it would charge Defendant nothing to configure Idaho's system to automatically accept the Complaints at Issue based on parameters tailored to Defendant's specifications. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 29:19-30:23, 77:17-78:17) & Exh. 16; Declaration of Terry Derrick (Dec. 15, 2022), ¶¶ 5-9 & Exh. 2 (ECF 59) (Tyler auto-accept courts). Defendant devotes a section of her brief to "Costs" of auto-accept, Def. MSJ at 25-27, but offers no evidence that Idaho would incur any costs to configure its system to automatically accept the Complaints at Issue.

Instead, she offers conclusory statements from various court personnel attesting to their belief that automatically accepting e-filed documents would be inefficient. The probative value of these declarations is severely limited because they are not based on the specific facts of this case. For example, it appears that none of the fifteen declarants who offered their views as to what they imagine the impact of providing access prior to clerk review might be did so based on an understanding of the universe of complaints at issue. Fourteen of them understood that the Court was considering access to all "newly submitted civil complaints" rather than the Complaints at Issue.⁹ The other believed that the relevant universe is all newly submitted "civil filings." Brown Decl., ¶ 5. None of these declarants claimed to know the actual volume of civil complaints returned for correction in their courts, let alone the number of Complaints at Issue.

The necessary analysis is "fact-intensive," Omundson, 598 F.Supp.3d at 55, and details matter. For example, Judge Brown acknowledged that the additional work auto-accept would supposedly create for clerks would be "minimal in a single transaction," but would "increase[] exponentially with the number of filings.” Brown Decl., ¶ 7. It is thus material that Judge Brown’s statements about the anticipated impact of auto-accept in the Sixth Judicial District courts were evidently made without knowledge that, for example, a total of five Complaints at Issue were returned for correction in Sixth Judicial District courts in all of January 2021. See Angione MSJ Decl., Exh. 4 (1 in Caribou, 1 in Oneida, 3 in Bannock, and none in Bear Lake, Franklin, or Power); see also, e.g., id., Exh. 5 (5 in July 2021), Exh. 6 (2 in January 2022), and Exh. 7 (3 in July 2022). On average, Idaho district courts rejected fewer than two Complaints at Issue per month in the four months Courthouse News analyzed. Angione MSJ Decl., ¶¶ 21-22 & Exh. 8. Even if Defendant had supported her assertions about the extra work that resolving clerical issues in e-filed complaints would be required if they were automatically accepted, the notion that a court might need to “hir[e] additional clerks,” Watkins Decl., ¶ 8, to handle such issues is implausible.

Similarly, most of the judicial personnel declarants testified that they were particularly concerned about the impact of an auto-accept system on pro se litigants. E.g., Wildman Decl., ¶ 10; Meyer Decl., ¶ 9; VanderVelde Decl., ¶ 9. These declarants are evidently unaware that Defendant could choose to configure its system to automatically accept only those Complaints at Issue filed by attorneys, retaining the current clerk-acceptance practice for pro se filings. See Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 60:17-61-11, 61:19-62:1).

Defendant imagines that the automatic filtering other courts – including those who use Tyler’s auto-accept or press review queue – use to control which complaints are automatically accepted or appear in a review queue might not be effective in Idaho, but she does not say why, let alone substantiate with evidence. She asserts that what clerks now do prior to acceptance, they would be powerless to do if their system had automatically accepted the complaint. Def.

MSJ at 26. None of her declarants explain why this would be so. Instead they simply assert in conclusory fashion that once “accepted,” complaints are part of the “official court record.” See, e.g., Brown Decl., ¶ 3.

Defendant herself testified that the idea that judicial action is necessary after “acceptance” is based on ICAR 33, which says that “[n]o paper, record or file in any action or proceeding shall be removed from the custody of the clerk except that such papers, records and files may be withdrawn for the use of the court.” Fetterly Decl., Exh. 5 (Omundson Depo. 90:11-94:10). But few, if any, of the issues that currently lead to rejection would require the removal of the originally filed complaint from the record. See, e.g., Angione MSJ Decl., Exhs. 4-7. Moreover, Defendant has acknowledged that even if it were true that current rules preclude clerks from handling clerical issues, Idaho could adjust its rules and procedures to give clerks more flexibility to address such issues. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 5 (Omundson Depo. 94:11-25).

The contention that in an auto-accept system, “filing errors could go unnoticed for an indefinite period of time,” Def. MSJ at 19, begs the question of why court staff would choose to defer indefinitely the ministerial review Defendant claims can now often be done within “nine business hours.” See Carroll Decl., ¶ 6(i). Nor does she explain why court staff who currently help litigants address “filing errors ... on the front end” could not do so after complaints are accepted (as the federal courts and auto-accepting state courts do). See Girdner Decl., ¶ 43 & Exh. 16; Fetterly Decl., ¶ 20 & Exh. 18.

Ultimately, Defendant points to a single scenario where auto-accept might require a choice between taking judicial action or impacting what she calls “litigant rights.” Def. MSJ at 27-28. She hypothesizes that a plaintiff might select the wrong county from the e-filing interface with neither the filer nor the court noticing the mistake until after the statute of limitations has lapsed. Id. . But even that scenario would not be catastrophic. If reluctant to make the plaintiff bear the brunt of its error, the court could “transfer the case to the venue listed on the face of the complaint.” Watkins Decl., ¶ 9. Moreover, there is no evidence that this scenario has ever come to pass, let alone that it happens so frequently as to render auto-accept an unreasonable alternative.

This example raises an important point about reasonable alternatives. Defendant emphasizes the frequency with which e-filers mistakenly choose Adams County instead of Ada County from the drop-down menu. Def. MSJ at 14, 19; DSUF ¶ 59. This is not a reason to withhold access to every one of the Complaints at Issue e-filed in Idaho’s district courts, but it might be a reason to add reminder language to the e-filing interface or to prompt users who select Adams or Ada County from the dropdown menu to confirm their selection. Whether or not Defendant should do so is obviously beyond the scope of this lawsuit. It bears mentioning here because it exemplifies the kind of measure that Press-Enterprise II requires courts to consider as an alternative to restricting access to complaints.¹⁰

Instead, Defendant has acknowledged that she has not explored whether any of her concerns about auto-accept could be addressed by configuring the parameters in particular ways (e.g., only automatically accepting Complaints at Issue filed by attorneys, leaving pro se filings for clerk acceptance (Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 60:17-61-11, 61:19-62:1)):

If the Idaho Supreme Court authorized Auto-Accept, I would investigate that. But the court rules tell me that the clerk reviews them and has the opportunity to reject them, so my work is focused on ... following the court rules. I’m not investigating how to get around the court rules.

¹⁰ Another example is rejection of the press review queue model on the grounds that it would allow the public to see new complaints before judges can. See, e.g., Meyer Decl., ¶ 11. The solution, of course, is not to continue withholding access but to instead give any judge who wants it access to the press review queue. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 169:15-25).

Id., Exh. 5 (Omundson Depo. 103:2-21).

Nor is auto-accept Defendant's only option. She could maintain the clerk-acceptance model but allow access to the Complaints at Issue while they await review, as many other state courts do. See, e.g., Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 104:17-105:7) (courts using Tyler's press review tool); Derrick Decl., ¶ 4 & Exh. 1 (same); Girdner Decl., ¶¶ 44-80 (courts providing pre-acceptance access through press review queues or other means).

Defendant acknowledges that Tyler offers a press review tool to its customers, but she has rejected this option because of cost and supposed cyber-security concerns. Def. MSJ at 22-24. Though Tyler initially provided press review queues for free, Tyler now charges courts for them and says the annual fee for a statewide queue is $108,000. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 171:15-172:14, 205:18-206:10). Not surprisingly, Tyler has said that it would not negotiate this price, id. (Derrick Depo. 172:15-22), despite Idaho's annual payment of more than $1 million for Tyler's e-filing software. Affidavit of Jason Spillman (Dec. 22, 2021) (ECF 20-21), Exh. B. Because Defendant has not tried to negotiate, Fetterly Decl., Exh. 7 at 20 (RFA No. 7), this statement cannot be tested.

Similarly, Defendant's security arguments are based not on evidence of security issues but rather on Tyler's apparent refusal to provide information Idaho requested as part of new procedures for vetting vendor software offerings. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 20 (Dvorak Depo. 58:3-60:6). In fact, Defendant could get the information she seeks if she were to begin the process of amending the e-filing contract to include the press review tool, but she has cited the lack of information as a reason not to consider such amendment. Id. (Dvorak Depo. 31:24-33:21). Though she now claims that "some of the answers Tyler [has] provided raise serious concerns," Def. MSJ at 23, the record does not bear this out. The supposed "serious concern" is whether the queue “is secured against manipulation of the original documents sitting in the Press Review Queue.” DSUF ¶ 46. But Tyler has answered this question, explaining that its press review queue software merely displays documents, and that it is not possible to modify those documents from within the queue. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 82:23-83:14, 85:17-23, 91:5-93:3).

In any event, the Court need not decide whether Defendant’s assertions about cost or security satisfy her burden to establish that no reasonable alternatives exist because still more options are available. If Defendant doesn’t want to transition to an auto-accept system and doesn’t want to pay Tyler to implement its press review tool, she can use the free, Tyler-provided application programming interface (API) to develop a review queue, portal, or other means of accessing the Complaints at Issue prior to processing. See Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 191:13-193:22).¹¹ And if her IT staff is not capable of such software development, it could engage a consultant to do it. There is no evidence that doing so would be prohibitively expensive. Indeed, Arizona was able to develop its own press access portal software from scratch for only $12,500. Girdner Decl., ¶¶ 70-71.

In fact, the Idaho Judicial Branch is already working towards “build[ing its] own” access portal through a non-Tyler vendor. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 5 (Omundson Depo. 34:5-36:5). To date, Defendant has not considered providing pre-processing access as part of this portal work

¹¹ The API is “just a specification document that essentially allows for the customer to build their own version of a Press Review Tool.” Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6 (Derrick Depo. 192:4-14). On November 10, Defendant first learned Tyler had begun making the API available. Id. (191:13-23). The assertion that “Tyler has not provided the Idaho Supreme Court with information it has requested regarding the security, functionality, and costs of the ... API” is based on November 7 testimony, DSUF ¶ 56, and does not reflect whatever information Defendant might have obtained once it learned the API was available. The representation that Defendant “has no way of estimating the time and costs associated with creating a program that can interface with the API,” id., is thus misleading and inaccurate. Nor can Defendant square her assertion that Idaho “cannot support the costs” of using the API to provide access, Omundson Decl., ¶ 21, with her assertion that she has no way of knowing what an API-based solution would cost.

“because the Idaho Supreme Court’s rules tell me that a document is available to the public when it is placed in a case file” Fetterly Decl., Exh. 5 (Omundson Depo. 37:16-39:1) (“I haven’t expanded the scope to something that is not within the policies of the Idaho Supreme Court.”).

A preference not to adopt an alternative does not make it unreasonable

IV. Press-Enterprise II Requires a Fact-Specific Analysis of the Circumstances, Not the One-Size-Fits-All Approach Defendant Urges

Defendant’s final argument – that an order requiring her to stop withholding the Complaints at Issue for ministerial review would require her to make all judicial documents available prior to review, Def. MSJ at 28-29 – aptly illustrates her misapprehension of the Press-Enterprise II test. The same analysis applied in this case would be applied to any other record. But the Court cannot use the record in this case to complete that analysis for documents not at issue here. For example, certain categories of juvenile and probate records might be confidential as a matter of law and not subject to the First Amendment right of access. Defendant might have an interest in delaying access to other filings that she does not have with respect to the Complaints at Issue. Defendant’s policies as to other filings might or might not withstand scrutiny. But the Court can only resolve the controversy the parties have presented. See, e.g., Akina v. Hawaii, 835 F.3d 1003, 1010-1011 (9th Cir. 2016) (warning against impermissible advisory opinions).

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff Courthouse News Service respectfully requests that the Court deny Defendant’s motion for summary judgment.

Did you know?

evoke or invoke?

Don't feel bad if you have difficulty remembering the difference between evoke and invoke, as the words are quite similar in many ways and have considerable overlap in meaning. However, the words do differ, and you would not want to substitute one for the other. Invoke is used of putting into effect or calling upon such things as laws, authority, or privilege ("the principal invoked a rule forbidding students from asking questions"). Evoke is primarily used in the sense "to call forth or up" and is often found in connection with such things as memories, emotions, or sympathy.

Subject: R : CNS v. Omundson responses to 1st set of discovery

i on,

We're working on the responses to the third set of discovery requests, and some questions have come up in terms of how we should define Idaho District Courts and civil complaints. The magistrate division is within the district court, so we weren't sure if you wanted us to include complaints filed with the magistrate division for purposes of responding to RO's 1-22.

Can you please identify the types of civil cases you're looking for by fee category in this appendix:

https://isc.idaho.gov/rules/IRCP/appendix/Civil_filing_fee_Schedule_e_0_0122.pdf

I'm assuming you're only looking for cases in that first category - all initial case filings in District Court of any type not listed in categories , , and 1 , but please let us know if we need to broaden the search.

Also, just wanted to follow up on the request for extension below. Is it ok if we get the responses to the third set of discovery requests to you on September 30?

i on,

Could we please get a one week extension for our responses to CNS' third set of interrogatories, requests for production, and requests for admission? That would make them due September 30.

We'll have responses to the second set of requests for admission and requests for production to you this Friday.

Attorneys for Courthouse News Service

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF IDAHO

COURTHOUSE NEWS SERVICE,

Plaintiff,

v.

SARA OMUNDSON, in her official capacity as Administrative Director of Idaho Courts,

Defendant.

Case No: 1:21-CV-00305-REP

DECLARATION OF ADAM ANGIO
IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFF
COURTHOUSE NEWS SERVICE'S
OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT'S
MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

I, Adam Angione, declare and state as follows:

1. I am employed as the Midwest & Northeast Bureau Chief for Courthouse News Service (“Courthouse News”). I make this declaration in support of Courthouse News’ opposition to Defendant Sara Omundson’s motion for summary judgment. I have personal knowledge of the following facts, except where otherwise stated, and could testify to the same if called as a witness.
2. Courthouse News submitted a declaration from me in support of its motion for summary judgment, which was filed as ECF No. 61-4 in the above-referenced case. I hereby adopt and incorporate by reference herein the contents of that declaration.
3. On January 7, 2023, Counsel for Courthouse News sent me an Excel spreadsheet which I understand was filed by Defendant as Exhibit A to the declaration of Emily Carroll in support of Defendant’s motion for summary judgment (the “Carroll Spreadsheet”).
4. Column AB of the Carroll Spreadsheet is labeled “DaysSumbitedtoPublic” (sic). I filtered Column AB to include only values of 5 or higher. I then sorted the spreadsheet based on the values in Column AB, from lowest to highest value. To make the resulting spreadsheet more legible, I hid all of the columns except for Columns A, D, G, K, and AB. Attached hereto as Exhibit 13 is a true and correct copy of the resulting filtered and sorted version of the Carroll Spreadsheet.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on this January 25, 2023.

Pursuant to the Court’s on-line directives concerning “Motions Practice”

(https://www.id.uscourts.gov/district/judges/nye/Motion_Practice.cfm) (“Motions to Strike”), Plaintiff Courthouse News Service (“Courthouse News”) hereby provides its objections to evidence submitted by Defendant Sara Omundson (“Defendant”) in support of her motion for summary judgment.

	O d E d	O
1.	Omundson Decl. [d d d r , ECF No. 59], ¶ 18	d R E d 2 (Lack of foundation as to personal knowledge; speculation); d R E d 1 (Improper opinion, conclusion); d R E d 2 (Improper/unsupported expert opinion); d R C 1 (Improper opinion from undisclosed expert). The witness does not offer evidence to support the conclusion that with Auto Accept “a filer error would not be addressed on the front end (when a filer can simply correct the error and resubmit) and instead would be addressed once the document is an official court record (meaning judicial action would be required to fix the error),” which would “also be detrimental to the courts because judges and their court staff would have to spend time and judicial resources correcting filing errors that could have been corrected by clerks through the review process.” This conclusion is based on the witness’ unsupported opinion concerning the Auto-Accept functionality of the Tyler File & Serve system, which is not used (and has not been used) by the Idaho Courts. The witness does not offer M foundational evidence establishing personal knowledge of the functionality and configurability of the Auto-Accept system. r d , 121 F3d 496, 502 (9th Cir. 1997) (Conclusory allegations without factual support are insufficient for summary

	judgment); M r M r rr r r , 134 F3d 319, 324 (5th Cir. 1998) (Evidentiary facts are required to support or oppose a summary judgment motion. Conclusory statements are not sufficient). This assertion also appears to be based on an administrative rule providing that “[n]o paper, record or file in any action or proceeding shall be removed from the custody of the clerk except that such papers, records and files may be withdrawn for use by the court.” ICAR 33; Fetterly Decl., Exh. 5, ECF No. 66 (Omundson Depo. 90:11-94:10). But most of the issues resulting in rejection of Complaints do not require the removal of records. See Angione Decl., Exhs. 4-7, ECF No. 61-4 (e.g., missing case information sheets, missing signatures, discrepancies in parties listed in complaint and entered into e-filing interface). And even if current rules did preclude clerks from handling such clerical issues, Defendant acknowledged that Idaho could adjust its rules and procedures to give clerks more flexibility to address them. Fetterly Decl., Exh. 5, ECF No. 66 (Omundson Depo. 94:11-25). The witness also fails to account for Tyler Technology’s ability to configure an Auto Accept system that avoids the need for judicial action. For instance, earlier in this case, Judge Hippler testified that judicial action would be necessary to address a failure to pay filing fees.” Hippler PI Aff., ¶¶ 7, 12, ECF No. 20-16. However, Tyler can configure the system to not automatically accept filings without filing fees, Fetterly Decl., Exh. 6, ECF No. 66 (Derrick Depo. 60:17-61:11, 61:19-62:1). In any event, rejections for incorrect filing fees appear to be relatively rare. See Angione Decl., Exhs. 4-7, ECF No. 61-4; Fetterly Decl., Exh. 1, ECF No. 66 (information in column M, “RejectComment”). The declarant, similarly, does not account for evidence undermining the assertion that automatically accepting new Complaints would impose a material burden on Idaho’s district court judges and staff. To begin with, the total volume of rejected Complaints is relatively small. Based on the

		four months of rejection data Courthouse News analyzed, the highest number of complaints rejected by a district court in a single month was sixteen. Angione Decl., ¶¶ 21-22 & Exh. 8, ECF No. 61-4. On average, Idaho district courts rejected fewer than two complaints per month. d So even if Defendant is correct that it would take several more minutes for a clerk to address a filer mistake after acceptance than it would have taken to return the filing for correction, Fetterly Decl., Exh. 5, ECF No. 66 (Omundson Depo 86:11-87:8); Molchan PI Aff., ¶ 10(a), ECF No. 20-14 the total additional clerk time would be inconsequential. And even if it were true that judicial action would be required to address issues like missing signatures and misspellings in party names, as Defendant asserts, Fetterly Decl., Exh. 5, ECF No. 66 (Omundson Depo 89:4-94:10), there is no reason to believe that the overall impact would be unmanageable. Lastly, the witness does not offer qualifications or foundation establishing a basis for offering expert opinions concerning the functionality or configurability of the Auto-Accept function of the Tyler File & Serve system. Fed. R. Evid. 708, 709. In any event, Defendant is precluded from offering any such opinions because she did not designate or disclose any expert witnesses. Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(c)(1).
2.	Omundson Decl. [ECF No. 59], ¶ 19	d R E d 2 (Lack of foundation as to personal knowledge; speculation); d R E d 1 (Improper opinion, conclusion). The witness does not offer evidence to support the conclusion that the Press Review Queue could “erode public confidence in the courts if members of the press and public are reporting on complaints as if they are official court documents.” This conclusion is based on the witness’ unsupported opinion regarding the reporting tactics of the press and public with regard to a Court that employs a Press Review Queue. The witness does not offer M foundational evidence establishing personal knowledge of the press and public reporting tactics in

		Courts employing a Press Review Queue or for their alleged concerns about false reporting. Further, the declarant's conclusory and general allegations of concern are not evidentiary facts establishing or demonstrating that there is a cause for concern. Mr. [redacted], 121 F3d 496, 502 (9th Cir. 1997) (Conclusory allegations without factual support are insufficient for summary judgment); Mr. [redacted], 134 F3d 319, 324 (5th Cir. 1998) (Evidentiary facts are required to support or oppose a summary judgment motion. Conclusory statements are not sufficient).
3.	Duke Decl. [ECF No. 60-3] ¶ 10, Ex. H	d R E d 1 (Lack of authentication); d R E d 1 (Hearsay not subject to any exception) The declarant does not satisfy any of the permissible methods for authenticating these documents. She identifies it only as a "true and correct copy of a document published by Tyler Technologies, Inc." The declarant is not a Tyler Technologies, Inc. ("Tyler") employee capable of authenticating Tyler's articles or records. Nor did the declarant seek to lay the proper foundation through the Rule 30(b)(6) deposition of the Tyler representative Ms. Jennifer Dvorak. Further, Defendant seeks to use this document for hearsay purposes (i.e. to prove the truth of the matters asserted therein). This document is an out of court statement made by Tyler, and offered by Defendant to prove the truth of the matter asserted therein – i.e., that "sweeping" activities resulted in a massive data breach in another public-facing Tyler product, the Odyssey Portal, which resulted in the inadvertent publication of over 300,000 confidential attorney discipline records." Def.'s Mot. Summ. J. 24, ECF No. 60-2. This document is not subject to the business records exception because it lacks the necessary foundation to demonstrate any indicia of trustworthiness. FRE 803(6). It is untrustworthy because the declarant does not establish she has personal knowledge that

		Tyler records, such as Exhibit H, are made contemporaneously by someone with personal knowledge of the underlying information, that the record was kept in the ordinary course of business, or that making the record was a regular practice of that activity. Nor is the declarant a custodian or other qualified witness to establish these facts. United States v. Rich, 580 F.2d 929, 938 (9th Cir. 1978) (business records inadmissible where the custodian or other qualified record did not testify that the records were “kept in the course of a regularly conducted business activity, and . . . it was the regular practice of that business activity to make the [record].”). Moreover, no evidence is offered corroborating the underlying document or showing it was made with firsthand knowledge or actually indicated what it purported to reflect; it should therefore be excluded. Id., 935 F.2d 990, 998-999 (9th Cir. 1991) (business records inadmissible where proffering party failed to show record was contemporaneously prepared or prepared by persons with firsthand knowledge).
4.	Duke Decl. [ECF No. 60-3] ¶ 11, Ex. I	d R E d 1 (Hearsay not subject to any exception) The declarant does not satisfy any of the permissible methods for authenticating these documents.
